RELEASE DATE: 30TH OCTOBER 2006

BIOGRAPHY:

Flatlands have been making waves in the UK scene for some time now, despite only being together for 18 months. With a stash of impressive gigs already under their belts flatlands seem to be becoming more and more popular as time goes on.

Raved about already on the basis of only two recorded demo songs (that were subsequently released on the legendary Super-Fi records label) Flatlands have already proved themselves to be one of the most exciting and promising bands on the current UK circuit. With their debut release due October 06 flatlands popularity is set to sky rocket.

Wielding a unique sound that some may describe as being a mix of the stripped down, post-metal feel that neurosis invoke on later records with the punishing silence/wall of sound attack Khanate employ so well Flatlands debut EP is a shining beacon of originality for heavy UK bands everywhere.

Combing devastatingly heavy tracks on the EP such as 'This Song Is A Film' with ambient/noise soundscapes such as 'Slow Down For The Aslackby Bends' the band showcase another side to their repertoire that some previous listeners may not anticipate. Mastering more and more sounds the band has an interesting and wide range of elements to use on their attack on the senses. Just wait for their EP to begin an attack on yours.

Come for the boredom, stay for the monotony...
